LIST OF INJURIES AN APPALLING ONE

Chicago, Oct. 15.—The weekly list of football injuries is appalling, as compared to records of "casualties" in combats of ten years ago, according to an authority on the gridiron game, writing today in the Chicago Daily News. Despite the new rules, many of which were designed to eliminate roughness and lessen chance of injury, the "new" game makes the "old" look like a "parlor pastime," he says. The critic does not blame the modern code or method of play for all the injuries but says that the changes have, in part, defeated their very purpose because they are responsible for loosing of the skill with which old time players avoided injury.

He cites the instance of one university of Chicago player, weighing only 142 pounds, who went through four seasons under the old rules, carrying the ball more than any other player on his team, and yet asked for "time out" only once. Several years later, a successor to this player, weighing more himself, but opposing men of less weight, than the "old timers," was taken out in his first college game, suffering more bruises than the first named got in his whole career, according to the critic.

MUCH BUTTER SOLD CONTRARY TO LAW

Salt Lake, Oct. 16.—Hundreds of pounds of unlabeled butter, recently put on the local market contrary to law by the Western Packing company, the local branch of Swift & Co., of Chicago, was sold in that condition, according to the local manager, Joseph R. Lewis, on advice of the firm's Chicago attorneys. When Herbert C. Smith, chief deputy of the state food and dairy department, swooped down upon the plant yesterday and threatened to make a seizure, the Chicago lawyers, when informed by Manager Lewis of the threatened act, wired back to "comply with the law." As a result there will be no seizure and all the butter now at the plant will be labeled.

Since much butter has been sold without labels, however, and former firms violating the rules were prosecuted, Deputy Smith filed information with the county attorney yesterday afternoon against Mr. Lewis and the Western Packing company, charging a violation of the state pure food law. The complaint will probably be filed today. In speaking of the matter, Mr. Smith said:

"The company now has at its plant on South Third West street, 6254 pounds of butter, containing no name or address either of the manufacturer or distributor. For the last two months this butter has been on the market and it is impossible to say how many pounds were sold. When I took up the matter with the local manager he informed me that the company lawyers had told him that he was in the clear in not complying with the law. It seems that they changed their minds today, however. There is no excuse for the Swift people in taking such a stand, as we have sent them copies of the laws. All we want is some name on the label so that responsibility for the butter may be fixed. Mr. Lewis will now have all the butter properly labeled."

MAN AND WIFE HAVE FATAL QUARREL OVER CHILDREN

Pocatello, Idaho, Oct. 15.—Peter B. Cantrell, a cement worker here, shot his wife, perhaps fatally, this afternoon and then committed suicide by shooting. He died within a few minutes and without making a statement.

Mrs. Cantrell called up the police station this evening and asked for help, explaining that her husband was trying to take her youngest child away from her. Before the police arrived on the scene the husband drove his wife out of the home, shot her and killed himself.

The bullet from a big bore revolver ranged through the woman's lung and came out at the shoulder.

Mrs. Cantrell was rushed to the hospital and may die at any time.

Neighbors declare that the husband and wife had been quarreling for several days since returning from a visit with friends in Salt Lake.

Cantrell has been a peaceful resident of this city for some time. It is believed that the two had to separate and that strife over the younger children led up to the tragedy.

Another version of the cause of the tragedy is that Cantrell was aroused to his murderous passion because his eldest daughter had married a man whom he did not like.

It is said that Cantrell charged his wife with aiding the daughter in her love affairs against his wishes, resulting in a quarrel in which he threatened to take his younger children from his wife and move with them to Ogden, where a few days ago he leased a house.

CANDIDATES SELECTED.

Bingham, Oct. 15.—By acclamation, Dr. F. E. Straup was selected as the Citizens non-partisan party candidate for mayor at the convention held tonight in Canyon hall. S. J. Hayes, S. L. Byrum, W. M. Evans and R. S. Jones were chosen as nominees for common board positions.

The Socialists held their nomination convention tonight in Smith hall. C. O. Marx was selected as candidate for mayor and C. W. Black, Gus Gabrielson, George Holstead and John Hocking for common board members. Hocking was not present at the convention and stated afterward that he would refuse to run. He said that his business as manager of the opera house would prevent him taking the position.

GARFIELD TO GET NEW STACK SOON

Salt Lake, Oct. 15.—Recent visitors to the American Smelting & Refining Garfield copper smelting works are impressed by the extensive amount of improvements that are being and that have been added of late, the company having completed a few weeks ago the new steel bridge over the railroad tracks to the north of the plant leading to the slag dump to the north of the old dumps. The steel structure cost in the neighborhood of $75,000, and brings available an extensive area for slag dumping purposes. The area originally set aside for this purpose proved much too limited.

During the past few weeks the management has been arranging for the construction of the new slag stack which is to be located not far distant from that now in use. Excavating for the flues and stack has progressed to the point where the laying of concrete can be commenced, and concrete is now being poured for the same.

Plans and specifications for the new stack are practically rounded out, and it is anticipated that the contract for the big stack will be let within the next few days. From the time of letting this contract it should take about two weeks to get the materials sufficient at the plant to begin work, and the task of building the stack should not consume more than ten weeks at the outside, unless the weather conditions prove extremely adverse.

The new stack will be 350 feet in height and 25 feet in diameter, whereas the stack now in commission is 300 feet high and 30 feet in diameter. It is the plan of the company to utilize both stacks at one time about as some have professed to believe.

All the reverberatory furnaces at Garfield are utilizing fuel oil at the present time and operations are progressing smoothly. The company is receiving the largest tonnage in its history, the Utah Copper pouring its concentrates into the bins by trainload. Utah Copper is another substantial customer with copper concentrates to sell, while the Yampa and numerous other companies are sending in copper ores on a wholesale basis. The smelter is one of the busiest spots in the west.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT VEILED IN MYSTERY

Salt Lake, Oct. 16.—Newly shaven and attired in his best suit of clothes, as if prepared for a social function, an Italian, believed to be Proner Dominick, about 22 years of age, shot himself in the head in his room at 357 West South Temple street shortly before 11 o'clock last night. He was still alive at St. Mark's hospital at an early hour this morning, but was not believed to have any chance for recovery.

Other than the possibility of a sudden revulsion of feeling over disappointment in some love affair, the police were unable to find a better explanation for the attempted suicide than despondency over being without money. The young man is said to have asked his landlady, Mrs. V. Colletti of the Piedmont rooming house, for food several times during the few days that he had been staying at the place. Only 35 cents was found in his clothing.

In one pocket was a new safety razor with a set of blades. A tobacco can, filled with cartridges for the revolver with which he fired a bullet into his right ear, was found among his belongings. This, the police think, indicates that he has had the gun for some time and did not purchase it for the purpose of killing himself. All of which is regarded as pointing toward an impulsive rather than premeditated attempt on his life.

Responding to an emergency telephone call to police headquarters, Mounted Patrolman Conyers and Willie went to the rooming house. They found the Italian doubled over on the floor, the revolver in his hand. He was removed immediately to the emergency hospital and attended by Dr. H. B. Sprague, who ordered him removed to St. Mark's hospital for further care.

Nothing of the business or connections of the man could be learned last night. A memorandum found in one of his coat pockets gave the name of Proner Dominick and was the only possible clue to his identity. He was handsome and evidently particular as to his personal appearance.

That suicide among Italians in Salt Lake is very rare appeared from comments of those about police headquarters last night. No one remembered of one for many months past.

PRISON LIVING HELL, DECLARES HAWTHORNE

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 15.—The Atlanta federal prison was characterized as "a living hell" by Julian Hawthorne, the novelist, who was today released from the prison after serving a sentence for fraud in connection with the sale of mining stocks. He also arraigned conditions in the penitentiary as "repressive, cruel and equal to the most lurid description in fiction."

"They are starving in the name of economy," Hawthorne declared. "You hear of the clean cells in which the prisoners sleep. But you never hear of the 'hole.' do you? For the slightest fault, sometimes for breaking a plate, a prisoner is sent to the 'hole,' a place under the main building for solitary confinement."

W. J. Morton, a New York, who was also released after serving a sentence for the same crime, was equally emphatic in his denunciation of the conditions at the southern prison.

"Prisoners are subjected to treatment that is nothing more or less than slow murder," Dr. Morton declared. "There is never enough to eat. As yet no plans for the entertainment of the teachers visiting the city have been made."

PLANS FOR SCHOOL CONVENTION ON 18TH

Superintendent J. M. Mills of the city schools is working on the program for the district educational convention to be held in Ogden Saturday, when teachers from Box Elder, Morgan, Davis, Summit and Weber counties will gather to discuss educational problems. The superintendent is expecting to hear from a prominent lecturer today.

There will probably be two sessions during the convention day, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. The students are at work on the school fair to be held at the high school and the best in work done in the Ogden schools will be exhibited. As yet no plans for the entertainment of the teachers visiting the city have been made.

BRITISH WOMEN PLAY STEADY GAME OF GOLF

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 15.—Good golf on the part of the British invaders featured the second round of the match for the women's national championship played today at the Wilmington Country club. Miss Muriel Dodd, British and Canadian champion; Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, British champion of 1911, and Miss Mabel Harrison, holder of the Irish title, are still among the survivors. The list of whom number only eight. To be sure, either Miss Dodd or Miss Ravenscroft must be eliminated before the final, because they are in the same half of the draw, but even with the help, the chances of an American victory are anything but bright. The two Canadians, Miss Florence Harvey and Miss Violet Pooley, were eliminated today, the former by Marion Hollins, the Metropolitan champion, and the latter by Miss Dood, but the strength of the British invasion is still as strong as ever.

Five American women golfers are still in the running. Mrs. O. H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia, who plays Miss Dodd tomorrow; Miss Fauna O'Good of Boston, who meets Miss Ravenscroft; Miss Harriet Curtis, also of Boston; and Mrs. F. H. Filler of Philadelphia, who meets Miss Hollins in the only all-American match of the four.

PROGRESSIVES IN CAMPAIGN.

Brigham City, Oct. 15.—The Progressive party in Brigham City is lively meeting held last evening in the Gem theatre, decided to place a non-partisan ticket in the field at the coming municipal election next month. A long address was delivered at the meeting by Nephil L. Morris of Salt Lake, who devoted his speech to municipal government.

According to Chairman Dr. R. A. Pearce, of the Progressive forces, there are negotiations on at the present time to combine with the two other parties and place one ticket in the field. The Progressives are at the head of the movement, and have given the Republicans and Democrats an opportunity of joining them in the movement. The matter will be settled in the morning, and in the meantime the Republican city committee will meet to decide on the question, and tomorrow evening the Democrats will hold a mass meeting to dispose of the matter. It seems very probable at this time. According to Dr. Pearce, that the three parties will come together, and that a good non-partisan ticket will be nominated.

The committee selected by the Progressives to work with the other parties consists of R. A. Pearce, chairman; N. J. Valentine, C. O. Christensen, Dan Petersen, R. Kaiser, Sylvanus Iversen and Oscar Petersen.

THOUSANDS ATTEND WOODRUFF FUNERAL

New York, Oct. 15.—More than 2000 persons attended the funeral of Timothy L. Woodruff, formerly lieutenant governor, in Brooklyn today. They included men of all political faiths. So numerous were the floral tributes that the pulpit was covered and only the head of the minister, the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, could be seen. Delegates were present from the assembly and senate and all other bodies in which Mr. Woodruff had served.

DEMOCRATS NOMINATE TICKET.

American Fork, Oct. 15.—The following city ticket was nominated by the local Democrats at a primary held here last night: For mayor, Earl Greenwood; for four-year term councilman, Joseph S. Wilde; for two-year term councilman, Justice R. Seely, Eli Hawkins and Adolph Nelson; for city treasurer, Mrs. Charlotte Featherstone; for city recorder, J. Watt Storrs.

MILITARY DRILL AT HIGH SCHOOL

Ogden High school will have military drill again this year. The efforts of 84 students who desired to see the drill re-established proved successful at the board of education meeting last evening when the student committee presented the petition to the board members. Superintendent J. M. Mills announced that the drill work will be taken up at once with Captain W. E. Kneass as commander and instructor.

While 84 young men have pledged themselves to join the battalion, it is expected that others who did not sign will also join, bringing the number up to at least 100.

The board decided to do away with drill early in the school year. It was found that many objected to having their sons enrolled in the organization. Many of the students objected to taking the work. As soon as the board's decision was announced, however, a number of students at once set to work to have the drill re-established. It was due to the work of the students that the board reconsidered its earlier action.

On the committee of students that called at the board office last night were John Lochhead, Milton Conway, Newton Dills, and Wyn Parker.

SHE IS NOT PLEASED WITH THIS CITY

Brigham City, Oct. 15.—Miss Cora Milam, champion "I Am for Utah" button seller of Salt Lake, spent the day here, and was about the busiest person in town for several hours. When Miss Milam had finished her work in the evening many of the Brigham boosters were decorated with the red buttons, the revenue from the sale of which will go to the Salt Lake Commercial club. In speaking of her visit to Ogden yesterday, Miss Milam was not very enthusiastic, and appeared disappointed at the treatment accorded her. She said she was much more successful in Brigham City, and was pleased with the courtesy extended to her here.

FEDERAL CONTROL OVER THE HUNTERS

The department of agriculture has taken steps to set in motion the machinery which will enforce the president's proclamation establishing regulations for the protection of migratory birds. Under these regulations, large number of migratory birds are, for the first time, put under federal protection and now five million hunters of the United States are placed under federal restrictions. The federal officers will co-operate with the state game commissioners in enforcing the regulations.

The states have been grouped into thirteen districts. The west section of these districts will be in charge of regular experienced employees of the department.

Among birds protected by the new law are wild duck, geese, swan, cranes of various species, several kind of shore birds, pigeon, dove, wren, and many others.

The regulations for the enforcement of the new law separate the country into two zones, known as the breeding and wintering zones. The former comprises twenty-five states lying wholly or in part north of latitude 40 degrees and the Ohio river, and the latter comprises twenty-three states and the District of Columbia lying wholly or in part south of latitude 40 degrees and the Ohio river.

The general open season for waterfowl in the northern zone is from September 1 to December 15, and in the southern zone from November 1 to January 15. The killing of shore birds is prohibited in Utah from December 16 to October 1, and it is also forbidden to shoot yellowlegs until September 1, 1915.

BEILISS TRIAL A WEIRD DRAMA

Kiev, Oct. 15.—The trial of Mendel Beiliss for the alleged "ritual murder" of 13-year-old Andrew Yushinsky was complicated today by the introduction of charges that Eugene and Valentine Cherbeyak, two children who were supposed to know something of the crime, had been poisoned by Krasovsky, former chief of the Kiev detective department.

Eugene was one of the close friends of the Yushinsky boy. The two children died of dysentery a few months after the murder. Their mother declared they had been poisoned by the Jews.

Detective Politshchuk, who was called to the witness stand today, practically accused Krasovsky of murdering the two children. He said he believed they died as the result of eating cakes given to them by Krasovsky. The witness said he had taken the cakes to the Cherbeyak home and given them to the children while their mother was temporarily in jail. Eugene was taken to the hospital the next day by his mother, who had been released from jail in the meantime. He died shortly after his arrival. Twenty-four hours later his little sister, Valentine, also died.

Dying Boy Silenced.
Politshchuk dramatically described the death of the boy Eugene. The boy was apparently trying to tell his mother what he knew, but the mother forced him to remain silent, saying:

"Say your mother is not to blame. The dying boy replied, 'Leave me alone, mother.'"

Much of Politshchuk's testimony was of a fantastic character, including tales of mysterious Jews of princely blood who associated with Beiliss, living under the same roof with the brickmaker.

Politshchuk's testimony also insinuated that a young Jew named Schneerson had been concerned in the murder. Schneerson, he said, had talked with the Yushinsky boy about his real father, a man named Tschirkoff, and promised to take the boy to see him.

Schneerson had previously denied knowing Yushinsky or any of the other children mentioned in the case.

Beiliss today appeared to have regained his confidence, seeing how weak was the case the prosecution had presented against him and realizing that public sympathy was with him. In a louder voice than he has used hitherto, he described to the court the process of baking unleavened bread. He said a rabbi was always present to insure cleanliness and a strict observance of the ritual.

This is an example of the mass of irrelevancies with which this amazing trial has been overloaded.

Other witnesses today included Vera Cherbeyak, her husband, Basil, and their surviving child, Ludmilla. The latter said that the last time she had seen little Andrew Yushinsky was when he and some other children had playfully chased Beiliss, his son and two other Jews. Her sister Valentine, she said, had seen Beiliss dragging the Yushinsky boy and another boy toward the cave where the boy's dead body was found later. The other captive escaped.

Counsel for the defense today declared that the prosecution's case had collapsed. The prediction was made that Judge Boldireff, president of the court, would throw the case out of court.
